MENDUM AVENUE SEWER SPECIAL TAX ABATED

City Council Passes Resolution at Meeting Last Evening on Petition of Mrs. Paul and Mrs. Kelley.

Two resolutions of importance, as well as considerable routine business, were passed Wednesday evening at the regular meeting of the city council. The special sewer assessment on the abutters of the Mendum and Park avenues sewer was abated and the city voted to purchase a site for the proposed Seamen's Home, the cost not to exceed $1500.

The Council meeting opened at 8.00 o'clock with Mayor Harry B. Yeaton presiding. Councilmen Duncan and Liberson were absent. The reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was passed on motion of Councilman Bennett.

Several petitions to open streets for the laying of water pipes and sewers were granted on motion by Councilman Sullivan, the work to be done under the direction of the Board of Public Works.

Petitions of the New England Telegraph and Telephone company for the erection of poles and the relocation of poles on Union street, Columbia street and Livermore street, were referred to

ASKED TO RETURN OFFICERS

Germans Gave Their Parole and U. S. Will Ask Gov. to Return Them.

Washington, October 20.—State department officials are considering the form of a communication which may go to the German government in regard to the escape of the two commissioned officers and six warrant officers from the interned German cruisers at the Norfolk navy yard.

Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department sent to Secretary Lansing tonight a formal report on the escape of the men, his letter following a conference with the secretary of state. It is determined from the report that the general parole covering all officers and men of their crews, given by the commanders of the Kronprinz Wilhelm and the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, when the ships were interned can be construed as a personal obligation upon the two commissioned officers missing from the Eitel, the German government probably will be asked to return Lieut. Koch and Dr. Koenig to the custody of the United States if they reach German soil.

In the meantime strict guard is being maintained upon the two raiders, and their ships' companies are being held closely to their vessels. Should it prove necessary care of the ships will be taken over by the navy and their crews transferred to detention camps ashore.

It became known tonight that the navy department recently held that Dr. Casimir Caspar and Gerhard Burman, civilian physicians on the Kronprinz Wilhelm, were not subject to internment and permitted them to sail for Germany by way of Copenhagen to engage in Red Cross work.

GERMANS CHARGE IN CLOSE FORMATION

Mowed Down With Terrific Losses in Dash at Rheims

(Special to The Herald)

Paris, October 21.—A mighty effort on the part of Germany to break through the lines to Rheims is being made. Following a terrific bombardment, three infantry attacks were made all of which were repulsed with heavy losses to the Germans. They were sent forward along a line of five miles and thrown into the trenches at close formation, so that the deadly rifle and machine fire of the French forces mowed them down in great masses, and whole regiments were slaughtered before they could reach the French trenches. When they were finally beaten back, the ground in front of the French position was completely covered with dead. The French war office this morning announced the attack was a complete failure.

POLICE OFFICER STOPS MARRIAGE OF SON

William B. Connolly of Boston Catches Son and Bride at City Clerk's Office --Will Permit Marriage Later

William B. Connolly, a Boston police officer put a crimp in the nuptial movements of Dan Conlitt at the city hall today, when he prevented the marriage of his son William B. Connolly, aged 19, and Miss Mary G. Danluth of the same age. The affair was not without a bit of excitement and young Connolly certainly started something when he found out that the game was up.

The couple came to this city five days ago and filed a marriage intention and rather than go back to Boston they waited here until the five days notice had expired. In the meantime the father of the young man got wind of the intended marriage and came here to make arrangements for the blockade when the couple would appear at the office of the city clerk for the certificate and be wed.

When the would-be groom and bride landed at the city hall about 10.30 this forenoon a police officer was waiting and brought young Connolly into the police headquarters. The father was sitting there and when he got his eye on his son he broke away from the police and no sprinter of national fame over had the speed that he used in his flight through the city hall corridor. Out he went with two local police and his father in hot pursuit, remarking, "If they get me they have got to go some." He lost them somewhere on State street and they came back empty handed. His lady love then took a hand and agreed to go out and bring him in, and she did. The father and the couple then held a conference and it was decided that if they would return to Boston he would consent to the marriage and have it take place on Sunday.

His objection was the marriage by a justice of the peace. The couple attempted to marry before in Boston, but the son being under age and not having the parents' consent, they could not unite. The Massachusetts law requires the man to be 21 years of age and the woman 18. In New Hampshire they would have a legal right to be made man and wife.

SERBIANS FLEE BEFORE BULGARS

Have Evacuated Two Cities; Bulgarians Accused of Revolting Cruelties.

Athens, Oct. 21.—Kumanova, an important town on the Nish-Salonica railroad, has been evacuated by the inhabitants, owing to the rapid advance of the Bulgarian troops. A great battle between the Serbians and Allies with the Bulgarians is reported on the heights of Vlassana Kotechani, where the Bulgarians are trying to cut their way through to Monastir.

Bulgarian troops are reported to be committing dreadful cruelties on the Serbians who fall in their way, since the invasion. Cruelties of the most revolting kind are reported to have been practiced on the men and women who have fallen into their hands, the men in all cases being put to death and their bodies mutilated. MAXWELL PROPERTY SAILOR'S HOME SITE

Estate at the Corner of Daniel and Chapel Streets to be Purchased by City for the Proposed Building.

The news that the long proposed Seaman's Home in this city is about to be built at a cost of more than $20,000.00, was made public at the meeting of the city council Wednesday evening when Chief Boatwain William L. Hill, U. S. N., addressed the meeting after the resolution transferring $1500 for the purchase of a site had been passed. Mr. Hill spoke on the invitation of the council and stated that the work of construction would probably begin within a very short time. It was also learned that the purchase of the Maxwell property at the corner of Daniel and Chapel streets was practically completed and that this land will be used for the site.

Mr. Hill has practically gained control of this property from Mrs. F. L. Maxwell several days ago for the Army and Navy Association at a cost of $3500.00. The necessary transfer of the deeds has not yet been completed but Mr. Hill announced that the papers were now being drawn up and would be passed within a few days.

The action of the city government last evening, in accordance with the law passed by the last legislature, makes the purchase possible and Mr. Hill stated that the association will sell the property to the city for the $1500, appropriated, provided that the city deed the property back to the association.

Councilman Bennett moved that the Mayor be empowered to buy the land from the funds set aside for that purpose earlier in the evening.

In speaking of the proposed building and its purpose, Mr. Hill said that it would cost in the neighborhood of $25,000 when completed. He said that there was funds of over $11,000 now available, although $5,000 of that amount was in the form of subscriptions which had not been paid. Now that the proposition has progressed so far this money will likely be paid on demand.

Mr. Hill said that he had some plans drawn up when he was in Washington by one of the architects in the Navy Department, and although they may have to be modified to a certain extent, the proposed building is to be one of the finest of its kind. It will be Colonial style and the land will allow for some additions if they are found necessary.

Mr. Hill said that it is likely that in time the home will become self supporting and that it is needed here and will do a vast amount of good is admitted by all.

The lot to be purchased is 50 feet by 70 to 80 feet and is an ideal location for the home. It will be provided with lockers and a dormitory department and the recreation rooms will be equipped with everything which is found in the finest club in the country. It will be a home and a club where the enlisted men of the army and navy will be welcome, their own place where they will be free to come and go as they please. It is Mr. Hill's intention to have it conducted on much the same plan as the existing room at the navy yard is now run under his supervision. It will be in direct charge, probably, of two or more competent naval petty officers assigned to the post by the navy department.

Mr. Hill said that it is likely that in time the home will become self supporting and that it is needed here and will do a vast amount of good is admitted by all.

Mr. Hill has been very successful with his method of conducting the reading room at the navy yard and the Seamen's Friend Society of this city, which will co-operate with the Army and Navy Association in building and maintaining the home will probably assist in the care of the home, has every confidence in Mr. Hill's supervision.

One of the officers of the Board of Governors of the Seamen's Friend Society stated to a representative of this paper last evening, that he had little fear that the necessary funds would not be raised when needed. He said: "We have had this idea in mind for several years. Portsmouth is the only seaport town in New Hampshire and nearly every city and town in the state will gladly aid in the raising of the necessary $3500. The idea probably originated with the Navy Yard Improvement Association and later the Seamen's Friend Society elected one of the Improvement Association officers to the Board of Governors. Since then, we have all been working for the one object and it will be a big thing for the men and the city and state."

At present, there are two buildings on the property, a house and a stable. These will be sold if possible, and the funds received will be used by the association. The occupants of the house have been notified of the sale of the property and will probably move out as soon as possible. All interested in the proposition are eager to begin the work.

This company with $33,511 received by Morris J. McDonald as president in year ended June 30, 1914. The names of J. D. Tyler, general superintendent, receiving $7200, and C. S. Pierce, paid $6575 as general attorney, appeared for the first time on the list of those receiving over $6000 a year.

SENATOR HOLLIS WILLING TO PROVIDE FOR FAMILY

United States Senator Henry F. Hollis Wednesday filed an answer at Concord to his wife's suit for a separation in which he declares he will not contest the action. He also consents to the custody of their minor child, Anne R. Hollis. On the question of maintenance he acknowledges his duty to provide for his wife and daughter, and asks that the court fix the sum to be paid.

The reply was signed October 15 and was forwarded from the Bay of Islands, N. F., where the senator is resting. It reads:

"I recognize my obligation to support my wife and desire to make reasonable provision for her maintenance."

"When we separated in May, 1912, because of incompatibility, she spent about a year in Europe with her children and I made her a liberal allowance. For some time up to July, 1915, I paid her $4050 a year for the support of herself and daughter. About the middle of June, last, further differences arose, which would, I believe have been amicably settled, if she had not employed Mr. Streeter. He bears me a personal grudge."

"July 5, 1915, I wrote my wife that if she continued to employ Mr. Streeter I would not pay her another dollar except what the court should allow after a hearing. I expected her to discharge Mr. Streeter or to apply to the courts to secure her legal rights at once. As long as my wife complied with my desires, it was my wish to make her a generous allowance."

"To accomplish this I took the very unusual course of continuing to practice law at a great personal sacrifice for more than two years after my election to the senate. I know of no legal or moral obligation to continue to practice law for the benefit of those dependent upon me when I hold an office which requires all my time and which pays a salary of $7500 per year. That should be enough to support four persons."

"I accordingly gave up the practice of law on July 16, 1915, and sold my business on that date unconditionally and without reservation to my former partners A. Marchie and C. C. Marchie, for $2000, taking their note for that sum, payable without interest after my term in the senate expires, March 5, 1919, and for the same consideration I leased them my law library and furnished them March 5, 1919.

"I have no income or means of income except my salary of $7500 a year as senator. About $1500 of this sum is required to pay interest, taxes and life insurance, leaving $6000 substantially for the support of myself and family. Out of this sum I am paying my son and daughter $1200 a year each for their support and education."

"I shall return to Washington soon to attend the point sessions of the congressional committee on fund credits. I am now engaged as chairman of the land mortgage committee of said commission on an exhaustive study of the subject."

Before November 15, next, I will furnish the court with an accurate list of my property and obligation and the amount of my income from my former law business for the years 1913, 1914 and 1915. I have not made nor attempted to make any sales, transfers or dispositions of property except the sale of my law business as aforesaid.

"I consent to a legal separation and join in the prayer that a suitable allowance be made for her support; also that she have the custody of her daughter, Anne R. Hollis. After furnishing detailed facts I shall leave the matter of an allowance to the discretion of the court. I do not wish to be heard. It is my experience in such cases that a personal contest in court serves no useful purpose, and it is undignified and degrading to both parties."

"The only matter in which Alexander Marchie is acting as trustee for me is in holding the sum of $2500 for the benefit of my son and daughter. $100 to be applied for the benefit of each monthly."

The South Berwick plant was acquired by the White Mountain Company from the Twin State Gas and Electric Company of Dover several years ago. It has an excellent water power.

I suffered from dull pains in my back and often I had such acute twinges across my loins that I could scarcely move. The kidney secretions contained sediment and were so frequent in passage that I was obliged to get up several times at night. SEE NATIONAL VICTORY FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Women Believe That Wilson's and Cabinet's Stand Will Swing the Country in Spite of Defeat in New Jersey.

Washington, Oct. 20.—With President Wilson's state-vote for suffrage and his cabinet members' declaration in favor of suffrage precipitate a national woman suffrage victory for the women warriors who have waged the battle Susan B. Anthony started in Washington in 1869.

The suffragists believe so.

They point to these facts.

For the first time in history, a President and a majority of his cabinet officers have declared themselves for suffrage. Last session, for the first time, suffrage was brought to a vote in the House.

The acquisition of 11 full suffrage states and one with partial suffrage, favorable reports from committees and the great demonstrations in Washington within the last few years led suffrage workers here to believe the amendment declaring "the right of suffrage shall not be denied or abridged on account of sex" will this year go to the states for ratification.

Jan. 19, 1869, Miss Anthony and Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton called in Washington a convention of workers to bring the amendment to the attention of Congress. The capitol looked aslant at the little group of women asking for some strange thing called "women's rights." They were pictured by cartoonists as persons who wanted to "wear trousers."

By hard work Susan B. Anthony secured a hearing on the proposal to extend the suffrage to women of the District of Columbia instead of taking it away from the men. There was no further result.

The workers planned a long campaign. With representatives secured from 19 states, they formed the National Woman Suffrage Association, and petitioned Congress. For a time they believed proper legal action would allow the women to vote under the 11th and 15th amendments granting suffrage to grocers. In 1872 Susan B. Anthony asked the Supreme judicial committee for such a ruling. It was denied. Several women tried to vote under these two amendments and the case of one was taken to the United States supreme court, where it was adversely decided.

Meantime, campaigns were being conducted in a number of states.

The amendment was drafted in 1875 and was first introduced into Congress by Senator A. A. Sargent of California in 1878. The resolution has been presented to every Congress since. From then until her death in 1906, Miss Anthony addressed House and Senate committees at all hearings.

Women workers for suffrage have appeared steadily before Congress between 1875 and 1914. One vote, unfavorable, was secured in the Senate.

With the addition to the electorate of between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 women in the west the issue took on new life. The vote finally reached in the Senate in 1914 lacked but 11 votes of a two-thirds majority and that in the House last January but 15.

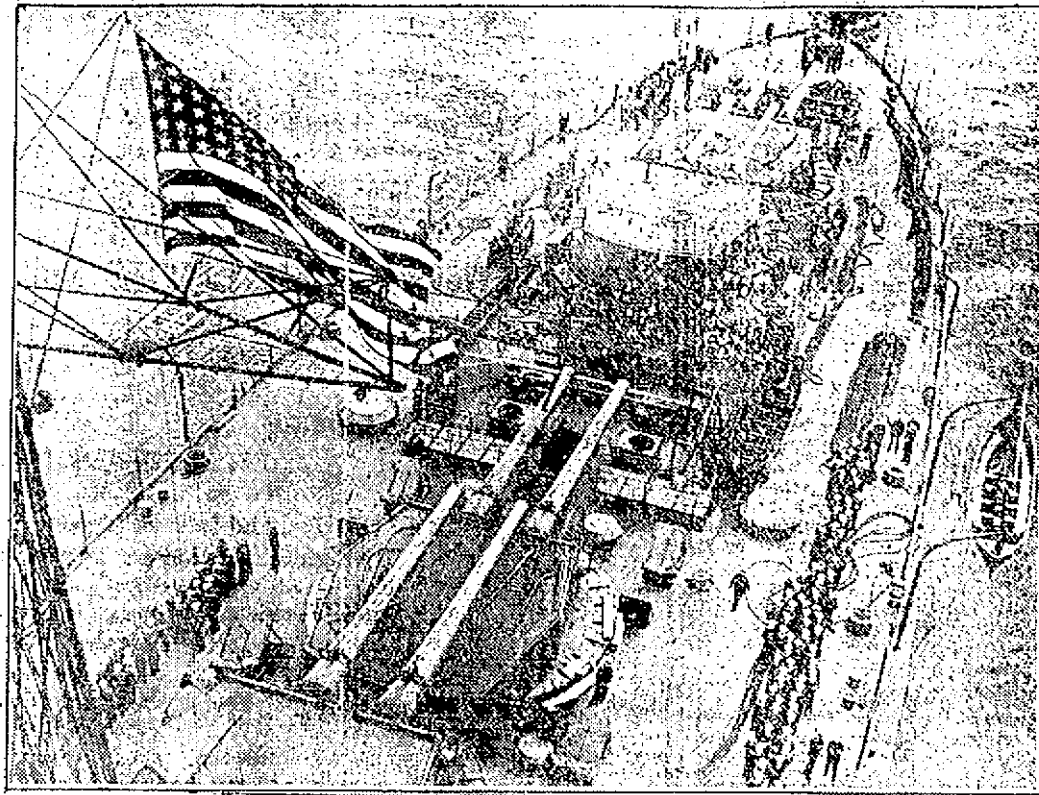

The amendment, if adopted, will be sent to the state legislatures for ratification. A favorable vote by two-thirds of the states is necessary to its success.

There are now under way four campaigns for suffrage. In New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. While suffrage workers are hopeful of successful results on Nov. 2, they are not claiming victory. If defeated, they believe a sufficient sentiment for suffrage will be shown to make a favorable impression on Congress.

The first big demonstration in Washington this year will be made at the opening of the session early in December. At that time hundreds of thousands of petitions will be presented to the President and to Congress.

A great pageant depicting the life of Miss Anthony will be shown. Delegations will urge the President to make his stand for suffrage effective by appealing to Democratic congressmen to aid the passage of the amendment.

AFTER THEIR HARD WORK IN WAR GAMES BIG BATTLESHIPS NEED OVERHAULING.

STERN OF THE DREADNAUGHT WYOMING

Six battleships of the Atlantic fleet, including the Wyoming, flagship of Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, returned to New York from Newport and the lately completed war games. The Arkansas went at once to the Brooklyn navy yard, and in a few hours the vessel was in drydock for general overhauling. The five others—the New York, Texas, Wyoming, Utah and Florida—anchored off Tompkinsville, Staten Island, where they awaited their turn for berths at the navy yard. The war games, according to Captain William Rawle Shoemaker of the Arkansas, were satisfactory from every standpoint. It was the first time, he said, that the fleet had ever maneuvered in actual war time. Nothing had marred the smoothness of the trials. The photograph of the stern of the Wyoming was made from the Manhattan bridge over the East river, New York.

armament of the United States, so that it will have a force which can be used, if necessary.

"It may very well be urged that a proposal which is attacked by extremists in so many directions must contain the foundation of a really conservative middle course, which has the advantage both of being practicable and at the same time of furnishing a possible meeting ground for a considerable number of powerful states at the end of this war. At all events discussion is of itself of supreme importance. It is high time that the world, strangled, passionately to find some safeguards against the recurrence of such a war as the present. The League may not have hit the best solution, but it is certainly up to its critics to find a better one. In this way something may be hammered out."

"If it were as pestilence instead of a war which in one year had killed off two million of the strongest young men of a generation and disabled many millions more the wisdom and science of the age would assuredly devote themselves to find a remedy or at least some safeguards. The fact that men are killing each other instead of being killed by disease should stimulate instead of paralyzing endeavor. Only towards will say that nothing can be done about it and that men have always killed each other in wars and always will. Men have learned to suppress violence within nations and must find some way to happiness or at least reduce it between nations."

"One of the most interesting, if not amusing, criticisms which has been made is that the League proposes to commit the United States to the formation of an International Police under the control for war purposes of some foreign authority, which, by possibility, may declare war on and use the force against the United States itself. One paper goes so far as to inquire in headlines: 'Are Peace League Advocates Treason?' In support of this contention the writer cites four provisions of the Constitution of the United States which would make such an action treasonable."

led States which the League's proposals are said to violate. These are the familiar ones by which the Constitution gives Congress the power to declare war, raise and support armies, guarantee to the states a republican form of government and protect them against invasion, and which give the President the power to make treaties with the consent of the Senate, and which provide that treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war upon it or adhering to its enemies. All this is very amusing. The writer of the article points to these constitutional provisions as if he had discovered them. He seems to think that such distinguished jurists and publicists as William Howard Taft, Judge Alton B. Parker, Judge George Gray, Governor Herck, John Bassett Moore, President Lowell, President Hilden, Oscar S. Strauss, Jacob M. Dickinson and others are unfamiliar with them. He seems like little Jack Horner, who sat in a corner. He puts his thumb into the Constitution, draws out four plums and says: "What a brave boy am I? There is nothing in the suggestion. The League is to enforce Peace does not propose to establish an International Police to which the United States shall contribute its quota of soldiers. It does not propose to deprive the President and the Senate of the right to make treaties, or Congress the right to declare war. The objections to an International Police have been well pointed out by President Lowell, one of the foremost founders of the League, in his article in the Atlantic Monthly, and in other places. No one of the League, so far as I know, entertains the idea of such a police force. To be of any value against great nations, it must be of magnificent strength to be kept and maintained somewhere in the world subject to the orders of some court, council or tribunal. Such an organization in this stage of the world's history is unthinkable."

"The proposals of the League are entirely simple and easily understood. They are that the United States and as many others of the great powers as will unite with us at the end of this war shall agree that they will not go to war with each other without first having submitted the cause of war to a court, if the question involved is judicial, and all other questions to a council of consultation; that in case any one of their own number goes to war against another of the signatory powers without such submission, they will immediately use their economic and military force against the aggressor, and finally that they will seek by conferences among themselves to form a league and codify rules of international law. Such an agreement with other nations by the United States must be ratified by the Senate just as any treaty is ratified. In case of violation by any one of the signatory powers, war can be declared only by Congress as provided in the Constitution. The nations are not to bind themselves to contribute quotas to any international police, but will establish such an arrangement only as each may determine upon and such as they would maintain in any event. It is not proposed that the decisions of the court or recommendations of the council should be enforced. The nations are not yet ready and very likely will not be ready in years to come to submit interests which they deem vital to the decision of any tribunal made up in large part of non-nationals. The League, for instance, does not ask the United States to agree that it will abide by the decision of such a tribunal concerning the Monroe Doctrine, or our title to the Canal Zone, or our right to the Philippine Islands. Neither would other nations submit questions which they deem vital and agree in advance and in any event to be bound by the decision of non-nationals. It is not proposed to attempt the impossible. But it is proposed to attempt to secure the adhesion of as many great powers as possible to a convention prohibiting them from going to war until after they have told in the presence of the world what their grievance is; until they and their own people have heard the other side; until every argument and shred of evidence has been spread before mankind and until they have had time for the blood to cool and have the enlightenment of a judicial determination or the advice of a council made up of jurists and men of affairs. This main object of the League is to secure delay and consideration before bloodshed."

SAMUEL J. ELDER MADE PEACE ADDRESS

Boston, Mass., Oct. 20.—Samuel J. Elder, one of the leaders of the Massachusetts bar, and an authority on international law, in an address here tonight at a banquet given by the Confederation of Manufacturers' Association outlined the purposes of the League to Enforce Peace, answering criticisms that have been made against the league's proposals.

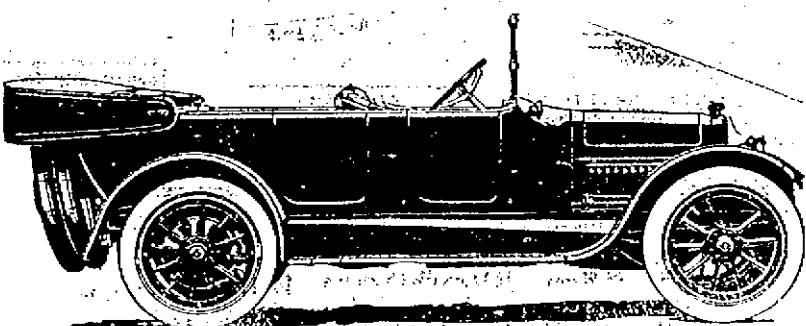

Mr. Elder has long been known as an advocate of arbitration for international disputes and was one of the senior counsel of the United States in the famous North Atlantic Fisheries case before the Hague Court in 1910.

"The League to Enforce Peace is the organization formed by ex-President Taft, President Lowell, of Harvard, Mr. Elder and others at Philadelphia in Independence Hall, on June 17th."

Mr. Elder said:

"The League to Enforce Peace is fortunate in the criticism and discussion which it has aroused. On the one hand it is said that it goes too far and on the other hand that it does not go far enough. It is said to go too far in that it proposes to use the economic and military force of the United States against any power signatory to the proposed convention which goes to war or commits acts of hostility before submitting its grievance to an international court, if the grievance presents a law question, or to a council of consultation, if it is not a law question. On the other hand it is said not to go far enough, because it does not propose to pledge the United States to use its force to carry out the decisions of such a court or the recommendations of such a council. In one quarter on the other hand it is ignorantly said that it does propose to use force to carry out such decisions and recommendations, and again ignorantly it is said to intend to keep the peace of the entire world by repelling attacks of any nation whatsoever, upon any one of the signatory powers. Extreme pacifists criticize it for the proposal to use force at all and say that it overlooks the efficiency of public opinion. The ultimate executive force behind all law, and say that it necessarily proposes, as it certainly does, the increase to some extent of the present

Too Much Meddling.

Many thinking men and women are beginning to question whether there are not too many organizations in this country. They recognize that there is good work to be done along many lines and that a great deal can be accomplished by effective and well handled organizations, but the number of societies and leagues in the field has become so great that there is danger of their blocking each other's way and causing earnest labor to go to waste.

A writer in the National Municipal Review has been looking into this matter, and gives an astonishing list of leagues, societies, associations, organizations and federations, all working for worthy ends, but the field is so full of organized bodies that their efforts inevitably overlap in some instances. In short, the conclusion to this writer is that there is too much machinery for the work to be done, large as is the volume.

Nor is the waste confined to private organizations. The disposition to make the world over, and to do it all at once, has found its way into the halls of legislation and the result is a multiplication of laws designed to "uplift" society at every joint and corner, many of which are absolutely unenforceable, while there is a great deal of laxness in enforcing the others. The statute books groan under an accumulation of laws for the fighting of everything under the sun which the reformers think is not just as it should be, but the multiplication of machinery for setting the world right goes steadily on. It is announced that there is now to be an effort to inaugurate a nation-wide movement to provide for the adequate care of the sick, those behind the movement representing that the economic loss to the country because of the lack of such care runs into the millions.

The startling point of most of these movements is the assumption that the people do not know how to take care of themselves, and that they need the oversight of the state and the multitude of organizations that have voluntarily taken the field. This is going too far. Legislation has its uses and private organizations are in order so far as there is a legitimate call for them, but it is time to recognize that the people are not a lot of children needing constant oversight in all of their affairs. Most of these they are able to manage very well, and the need of the times is not more meddling, but less.

New Orleans protests that the stories of the recent gulf storm were greatly exaggerated. One of the city papers states that while the losses were reported to amount to $100,000,000 they did not exceed $2,000,000. It will be recalled that California soon became tired of being held up as one of the world's earthquake centers. After the excitement blows over, cities and states realize that exaggerated reports of catastrophes are not the best kind of advertising.

An eastern newspaper reports a 15-year old school boy who has this season cleared more than $300 on a garden 100 feet square, to which he has not given all of his time by any means. His staples were onions and celery. It is a good story, but let not would-be farmers and gardeners become excited. There are many experienced men raising those crops, and they are not getting rich faster than the law allows.

What the world is anxiously waiting for is some means to keep the heart going after a disease has been overcome. There are too many cases in which after the disease has been eliminated the heart gives out and the patient dies. A case in point is that of the aged Long Island lawyer who died last week in a New York hospital of anthrax.

A writer in Harper's Weekly asserts that some of the faked war news is the "most ambitious practical" joke in newspaper history. But this is not even suspected by the readers of the papers that indulge in that kind of "reporting." The more's the pity.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, who recently threatened to shoot some of his enemies, has since been ejected from a court room for calling a witness a liar and grappling with him. Rather strenuous performances these for a Golden Ruler, are they not?

In two state prisons in California university correspondence courses are offered to the convicts. And the people of the state are hoping that not too many courses will be cut short by pardon or parole.

The critics are after Henry Ford with sharp sticks, but if he can stand criticism as well as his cars do he will not need to worry. And he keeps right on talking as if he thought he could.

NOW LARGEST IN STATE.

Dr. E. S. Cowles Takes Another Building for His Institution.

Dr. Edward S. Cowles, proprietor of Dr. Cowles' psychotherapeutic Sanatorium, has just taken the large brick house adjoining his own residence on Middle street, formerly occupied by the Rev. Alfred Gooding, and this residence will hereafter become a part of the institution. Dr. Cowles intends to make extensive improvements in the house and has arranged for the installation of a modern bath system. One of the rooms will be fitted with all the modern electric apparatus.

Dr. Cowles came to Portsmouth only four years ago, an absolute stranger to the community, and has built up in these four years a large and flourishing private hospital. The institution itself has become quite an asset to the townspeople. Although it is practically in its infancy it spends many thousands of dollars each year in the various ways in the town. With its many nurses and servants and large number of patients it promises to become one of the largest institutions in the state. For the past month Dr. Cowles' institution has been so overcrowded that a number of his patients have been forced to board in the various hotels of the town.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Says it is Boys' Play

Elliot, Me., October 21, 1915

Editor: It is evident that the Elliot Fire Department are looking for fame, and this fame is going to be expensive to the town. The department appears to have lost all conception of expense in dragging around the apparatus at every opportunity for public exhibition, which looks very much like boys' play.

What is the need of two fire trucks in the first place, when one would do the work necessary. In Kittery, the department with one truck, covers more territory and the members of that department have caused no useless expenditure of money to the town. They practically built the apparatus themselves. In Elliot it is different. The men who have got the fire fighting fever and the anxiety to wear a badge, think that the town has money to burn and that the selectmen should take interest in nothing else but the brave fire department.

If the firemen are to continue this rivalry the selectmen should see that they are not allowed to haul out the apparatus every other day for amusement. It is time that they were forced to come to order and cut out this child's play.

CURRENT OPINION

Military Training of the Unemployed Would Create Large Reserve Army

A plan I would suggest to accomplish the double good of enlarging the reserve army and relieving the cities of the burden of unemployment, would be the establishment of suburban camps placed near the cities, where any man who is out of work could apply and, on being admitted, receive three months of military training, his board, lodging and uniform and six dollars a month besides. I do not refer necessarily to those who are too lazy and inefficient to work, but to the thousands of men who are ready and willing to do whatever they can. They have become one of the great municipal problems, and if every little town in the country, to say nothing of the cities, would mobilize its unemployed we would have an army of more than one million men, in addition to the reservists we already have.

Three months under military supervision would give these men health, morale, knowledge of how to take care of themselves and self respect, so at the end of that time they would be three times as capable of finding a position and of holding it as they were before.

To say nothing of the military value to the country derived from such a large number of reservists, the advantages to the cities of organizing and equipping these men would be almost too great to be measured.—By Major General Wood, United States Army.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., Oct. 20.—The New Hampshire State Board of Trade had its annual fall meeting in Durham today as the guest of the college. About 30 members were present.

After a short business session in the morning, the visitors were taken on a tour of the grounds and buildings and were guests at a luncheon served by the college in Thompson Hall. In the afternoon the undergraduates were introduced to the visitors at the first convocation ever held in the gymnasium.

Since the beginnings of the school at Durham these general assemblies have been in the old chapel room in Thompson Hall, which has suddenly been found inadequate. Today's meeting in the gymnasium was consequently a historical. President Fairchild explained the significance of the occasion to the visitors and gave them statistics of the amazing growth of the college. He predicted that even the gymnasium would be soon unable to accommodate the students, and that there would be at least 1000 within four years. He stated also that although today students are to occupy the new men's dormitory for the first time, already a new one is needed. Next year's classes must be provided for. The two dormitories for girls are also filled and a new dormitory for next year's girls will be needed at once. A commons is another necessity, as is a building for the rapidly growing home economics department; but the President declared that if the students retain the respect and admiration of the state which they now enjoy, all these things will be forthcoming. Recent statistics he said, show that 87 percent of the students here are New Hampshire born, and an even larger percent are New Hampshire residents.

H. C. Bean, secretary of state, then addressed the students as the representative of the governor, and said that the state is to be congratulated upon its college here, which he declared is an important agency for the promotion of efficiency.

H. H. Metcalf of Concord, secretary of the board of trade congratulated the college upon its having thrown open its doors to women, and upon its training of students in agriculture to the eventual benefit of the state's resources.

Andrew Pellet, commissioner of agriculture, said that graduates from Durham are now settling on farms all over the state and are revolutionizing agriculture in New Hampshire. He predicted the eventual profitable occupation of all the farms now abandoned.

At the conclusion of the speaking there was cheering by the students for the visitors, and college songs were sung.

President Fairchild today announced the Beta Phi society to be the winner of a silver cup offered the first time a year ago to the college fraternity here attaining the highest scholarship standard. The society will have possession of the cup one year when a new award will be made.

the committee on rules and wires on motion by Councilman Hett and Smart a petition for the continuation of the sewer of Fleet street from Porter street to Congress street was referred to the Board of Public Works to be reported on at the next meeting.

A petition of the Frank Jones Drilling Company for a permit to erect a platform on either side of the Albany street, the platform to overhang the sidewalk four feet at a height of twelve feet, supported by two iron posts, was granted, on motion by Councilman Sullivan.

The Board of Public Works petitioned the sale of the old stone crusher now situated on South street, which has not been used for more than ten years, and the money secured from the sale to be used towards the purchase of a modern portable stone crusher. The petition was instigated by the receipt of a letter from John J. Evans of Lawrence, a general contractor. Mr. Evans wrote, asking the price and intimating a desire to buy it from the city. Councilman Bennett moved that the auditor be authorized to invite bids for the purchase of the stone crusher before the next meeting.

Councilman Smart, as chairman of the special committee for the purchase of a police automobile patrol, reported that a Studebaker patrol auto had been purchased at a cost of $325.00 equipped. The car is now at the Sinclair garage where some work is being done on it and will be ready to turn over to the police commissioners on Saturday. He further reported that Sidney Trueman had started work on the garage. The report was accepted by the council on motion offered by Councilman Hett.

At a request made by Councilman Sullivan, Councilman Bennett reported for the finance committee that there were no funds available for the construction of a sewer petitioned for by Mr. Pendergast. Councilman Sullivan stated that the Board of Public Works had investigated the cost of this sewer and had stated that $150 was needed. Councilman Dowdell asked the auditor what funds the Board of Public Works had available in the sewer division and was informed that there was but $25.00. Councilman Sullivan moved that the Finance Committee's report be accepted and the motion was passed.

Councilman Dowdell, who has been trying for some time to get the mayor to bring some action on the Mendum Avenue sewer assessment, succeeded Wednesday evening in getting the matter before the council. He said that so far as he knew the city solicitor, had failed to report of the petition referred to him some time ago. The petition was submitted to the council by Alice H. Paul and Rommie S. Kelley, and asked that the special tax of $642.77 for the construction of the sewer, be abated.

Mr. Dowdell said that these people had waited sometime to hear from the city and it was time that some action was taken. He said that the matter was an inconvenience to these people and could see no reason why sewers were built in other places and the abutters were assessed only for their entrance to the sewer.

Councilman Smart requested that the City Solicitor be requested to attend the session and report on the matter. Mr. Waldron was sent for and reported that in his opinion the city "can or can not abate the assessment, as it sees fit."

Councilman Smart took the matter up and suggested that it was a question as to what was intended by the council which voted to build the sewer. He said that if the Councilmen had intended building the sewer and pay for the same, it was an injustice for the city to now expect the abutters to pay this assessment.

Councilman Hett stated that he thought it was the custom for the city to build the sewers and he mentioned several which had been built and no assessment made to the abutters.

At the request of Councilman Bennett the resolution passed by the council in 1913 which provided for the building of the sewer was read and he stated that it appeared that the council had intended that the city would stand the cost. He said that he was open to conviction but would have to be shown some good reason why the abutters should pay for it.

Councilman Hett said that he was opposed to the city charging for the sewer for the building of this sewer and asked that Judge Adams, who was present at the meeting and had been introduced the original petition, be a member of the council in 1913, having been to speak. Mr. Adams was granted permission to speak on the subject on motion offered by Councilman Smart.

He said: "I am a citizen of this city as you all are, and I think that it is right that the city abate this tax. It was clearly the intention of the council that the city pay for this sewer when it was built. The city solicitor has not stated all of the facts. He has read the law relative to the abatement of the tax, but he said nothing about the law which provides that in case a sewer is to be built and paid for by the abutters, the city shall

Pending the outcome of Mrs. Ellis's fight here the child has been in the custody of Baron N. Kanda.

SUPERIOR COURT.

The second day's session of the Superior Court opened at 10:00 o'clock yesterday morning, but little action was taken during the morning. After the noon recess a jury was empaneled for the case of Sara and Julius Gouss against the City of Portsmouth to recover $10,000 for damages alleged to have been caused by the raising of grades on Newton avenue and Scruton street in the district known as Puddle Dock. The following men composed the jury:—Frederic H. Clark of Sandown, Foreman; Wilfred E. Nason, George Lillard, Eugene O. Greeley, Lewis B. Brady, Benjamin Stockhouse, Henry E. Campbell, Ray P. Buxton, Sherman A. Priest, Lewis G. Shattuck, Stanley L. Nudd, Edward B. Davis.

As soon as the jury were empaneled they were taken to the site of the property where a view was taken. The case is being tried by Attorneys Mitchell, Gray and Torrey for the plaintiff and City Solicitor Waldron and Judge Gupitt are defending the suit for the city.

Mr. Gouss was put on the witness stand by Attorney Gray for direct examination and testified that the grade of the street had been raised several times since he bought the property, causing the water which drained onto his land to stand for long periods of time. He said that he had complained to the city officials often in the past twelve years and that he had spent considerable money in filling in the property and moving his barn so as to save it from further harm. The filling and moving had cost him $1800 at one time and at another time he said that Mr. Hitt had hauled 300 loads of piling onto the place at a cost of $35.00 a hundred loads.

He testified further that the smell from the water was offensive and had resulted in causing his wife to become sick. Several tons of paper which he had stored under his barn, were destroyed at a great loss to him by stagnant water.

He was cross examined by Judge Gupitt and testified that since the building of the sewer on Newton avenue less trouble was encountered but that even now the water would remain for a day or two after a heavy rain.

The second witness called was John W. Robinson of Hancock street who practically substantiated the testimony offered by Mr. Gouss. Mr. Robinson told of a fence which was several feet higher than the level of the road at the bottom of the pickets at one time and was now nearly covered. Cross examined by Judge Gupitt he stated that persons were at one time in the habit of crawling under the fence and now had to climb over if they wanted to cross.

J. E. Seranton, City Engineer in 1905, and who had done work on the street as far back as 1895, testified that the level of Newton avenue had been changed several times and that certain catch basins were now 15 inches above the level of the property owned by Mr. Gouss.

The court adjourned until 10:00 o'clock this morning when the case will be continued.

It was expected that the case of Florence M. Sargent vs Charles W. Garland, executor for the estate of Catherine H. Sargent, would be tried at yesterday's session but the case was settled out of court.

EPISCOPAL SUNDAY SCHOOLS

In Convention in Dover With Delegates From All Over the State.

The 15th annual meeting of the Sunday school conference of the Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire opened at St. Thomas' Episcopal church, Dover at 8:30 o'clock. The conference continued throughout the evening and closed Wednesday afternoon with a luncheon at the parish house at 12:30 o'clock today.

Delegates were present from all over the state and practically all the parishes were represented. The following was the program for the afternoon and evening:

3:30 p. m.—Registration in parish house, State street.
4 p. m.—Opening session in the church.
4:30 p. m.—Address, "St. Paul," Rev. Wagner F. Gookin, professor of New Testament exegesis, Episcopal Theological school at Cambridge, Mass.
6:15 p. m.—Evening prayer.
7 p. m.—Supper served in the homes of the hosts.
7:30 p. m.—Address, "Christian Nurture," by Miss Frances H. Withers of St. Paul's church, Yonkers, N. Y., representing the general board of religious education.

This morning at 9:30 o'clock the convention held its business meeting. Besides the reports from the different departments there was an election of officers an address by Miss Withers, and notes from the field by Rev. C. F. Cowper of the Sanbornville mission, and Rev. William Porter Niles of the Church of the Good Shepherd of Nashua.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

If peevish, feverish and sick, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

McDermott Picks Out Queer
Place for Nap on School St.

Michael McDermott took a queer place to sleep off a jag on Wednesday afternoon when he crawled into a hen coop on School street. Michael was teaching off the snore in great style in company with the chicks when a woman heard the queer noise coming from the yard. She investigated and found him flopped on the floor block, adding the entrance to the home of her barn-yard fowl. She whispered a few words over the telephone and Officer Anderson went up and disturbed McDermott's slumbers. During the conversation between the police officer and the woman, McDermott came partly out of his dreams and he heard the cop say, "wait until I get a wagon." But Michael didn't wait. While the cop was hunting for an improvised patrol, McDermott started to beat it. The cop got back in time to stop him from the dash for liberty and escort him to the city territory on Chapel street.

GIVE BRIDGE TO KITTERY

Navy Department Allows the Town Use of Old Bridge
as a Wharf.

The navy department has awarded about a hundred feet of the old wooden bridge to the town of Kittery on the condition that the town maintain the bridge in repair and protect it from fire.

The bridge which extends into the river one hundred feet from the Kittery shore, is now in excellent repair, for when the bridge was taken down, this was left and the end finished up with a regular wharf cap.

The agreement between the town and the department is that in addition to keeping it in repair, they will give it back to the government, if at any time it is needed. The town will use the structure as a town wharf and it will be a big addition to the waterfront facilities of Kittery.
